ARREST SHERIFF TRIAL 'TIPSTER' Swing to Walsh in Campaign Windup HATE VIEWS MRS. MILLS' BODY

SHAKEN BY EMOTION AT SIGHT

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 28.—James Mills was called on today to view the body of his wife, who was killed when Sheriff Wallis L. Fairbanks was taken into custody. Mills was taken in to identify the body. He identified her all right. But he was shaken up quite a bit.

Dr. Otto Schmitt of the New York District Attorney's office then entered the garage to perform the autopsy.

The prosecution hoped to verify or refute reports that the slain chief's tongue had been slit and to tear up confusion in medical testimony regarding the exact course of bullets that killed Mrs. Mills. Permission to examine the body of Dr. Hall, which rests in a Brooklyn cemetery, is also sought.

'GILDED CAGE' DIVORCE SUIT ENDS SUDDENLY

A secret conference resulted in a sudden ending today of the divorce suit of Mrs. George W. Sheridan of Newton against her wealthy husband. The case was expected to resume in Middlesex Probate Court. Sheridan was expected to resume charges today to continue a denial of charges that his wife styled herself "a bird in a gilded cage."

Opposing counsel were called into conference in the judge's lobby, and it was announced that the case had been continued indefinitely.

Mrs. Sheridan, in picture-hung parlors as a captive bird, said her husband considered her simply as a chattel. He ordered her to have no companions, no enjoyments, and to obey his commands to the letter.

M'CLINTOCK'S MILLION IS WON BY SHEPHERD

Victory in the game of $100,000,000 came to William D. Shepherd of Chicago today when the Supreme Court handed down a decision upholding validity of the bequeathing of the will of "Bibi" McClinton, former Dartmouth student, for whose death, Shepherd was charged with murder.

It marked the last of a series of court battles which were of wide interest.

"Bibi" McClinton died at Shepherd's home in Chicago and Shepherd and his wife later were arrested.

Two Lynn children scalded to death.

Scalded by boiling water from a pot that one of them tipped over, two Lynn children died at Lynn hospital today.

They were William Knebo, 2 years old, and his 18-month-old brother, John, of 27 Woodman street. Their mother, Mrs. Joseph Knebo, was preparing hot water for the children's bath, and John pulled the water over on them.

SEIZE MAN ACCUSED OF TOSSING NOTES TO GIRL AT TRIAL OF SHERIFF

By FRANK G. McLEAN
Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 28.—A sensation came today in the trial of Sheriff Wallis L. Fairbanks, charged with a serious offense with Irma Stoodley, State ward, when Edward Daddo, out on bail on charges of rum-running and smuggling, was brought into court on the charge of attempting to throw notes through the window of the county jail to the Stoodley girl and her friend, Minnie Rushford.

The Rushford girl is held as a material witness in the case against Fairbanks, and is to testify for the government.

Sheriff Slater and Deputy Sheriff McAllister put the man under arrest, charging that they saw him throw a note through the window in the room occupied by the Stoodley girl. The note had been destroyed, they said, when they went to the room to investigate.

The impression is that the note was not of the "maxim" type, but more of a "tipster" nature.

Daddo's alleged act was detected while Slater and McAllister were on duty guarding against attempts to escape.

CHANGE IN QUEEN'S TOUR IS OFFICIALLY DENIED

Bucharest, Oct. 28 (U.N.R.)—The Rumanian Foreign Office today issued through the International News Service a general denial of all reports that the government intends to interfere in the matter of Queen Maria's tour of the United States.

The Foreign Office today refused to circulate the following statement to all of its client newspapers:

"Please do not believe and more diplomates regarding the pretended intervention of the Rumanian government to shorten the Queen's stay in the United States. The Queen's original program remains unchanged."

This statement was in answer to reports that King Ferdinand had requested the Queen to come home, reports that the Queen's physician had ordered her to leave and reports that the King was in a serious physical condition.

Wireless Power.
Rarefied Air—Thought.
Big Business Is Big.
Busy Russia.
BRISBANE

Occasionally during several years past that solution of the flying problem would eventually include wireless transmission of power. What man can imagine they can do what imaginations run on sane lines.

Electric waves are power, and can be sent without wires. It is not too much to hope that power generated at one place on the earth will be sent without wires to another place, or sent to machines flying in the air.

LATEST, most important news is that Marconi, speaking cautiously, as usual, suggests the possibility of power transmission without wires as a scientific possibility, not a mere hope. There could be no greater practical scientific achievement.

SCIENTISTS THINK, some of them, that no intelligent life exists on the planet Mars. Because of the planet's great age. As millions of years pass, the atmosphere on a planet becomes rarefied, therefore harder to breathe.

HOW DO they know that a more rarified atmosphere does not make a more highly developed, thinking life? During the Cretaceous Era, last millions of years, when the first land salamanders crawled and laid the foundations of our decimal system by handling up two fingers and ten toes, when dinosaurs unopposed power on the earth for six millions years before man came, man could not possibly have breathed the air that they breathed.

THE GIANT REPTILES breathed a thick atmosphere that would have been poisonous to our lungs. Perhaps the air that we breathe would be too gross for rarified human beings.

The plight of the five-master was made more serious by the fact that she has a cargo of 2,500 tons of coal.

BATTLES BIG SEAS.

The highhouse tender Tex, which arrived on the scene before noon, sent a radiogram to Portland headquarters that she had succeeded in getting a tow line aboard the disabled craft, and they were starting for Rockland, the nearest harbor.

A north-easterly wind was blowing heavily and the sea was rough. The Dering is commanded by Captain McIntire of New Bedford.

The crew consists of ten men. The schooner, sailed from Baltimore last Thursday.

The crew of the schooner, bound for Philadelphia with pilchard, despatched for 24 hours during the height of the gale before they were picked up by the Norwegian steamer Felix. The gale reached hurricane force in the Bay of Fundy.

LEVATHAN BATTLES GALE.

Ship schedules were disrupted today by gales which lashed a wide area of the Atlantic. The Levathan, United States liner, will dock 11 hours late at Cherbourg tomorrow.

The President Harding, which docked there today, reported heavy seas for 1,500 miles.

The three-masted schooner J. K. Mitchell, commanded by Captain Albert Long of Hanson street, Rochester, N. H., has been reported missing since September 2 and the family of the shipper have asked Boston agents for news of the craft.

Plane Hunts Crew as Big Ship Sinks After Crash

New Orleans, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—The steamship Louisiana sank outside South Pass early today, colliding with the steamship Madison, officials of the Gulf & Southern Steamship Company were informed.

The Louisiana, a freighter, carried a crew of about 35 men. The Madison, a passenger-carrying vessel, had a crew of between 40 and 50 men and several passengers. All passengers were reported safe.

The Madison was able to proceed to Pilot Town, near the mouth of the river, under her own power. Her bow was damaged.

20 YEARS IN PRISON

FOR KILLING PARTNER

White Plains, Oct. 28 (N.Y.A.)—Joseph Corbino, 34, of Worcester, Mass., pleaded guilty to second degree murder as he was about to go on trial today on a first degree charge for killing his partner, Joseph Catalano, of Port Chester, Conn. He was sentenced to from 15 years to life at Sing Sing. Corbino and Catalano were arrested on a refreshment stand they operated at Ryer Beach.

A resolution favoring prohibition was passed today at the State convention of Baptists in Malden. A short time preceded the passing of the resolution, which urged unqualified support of the Eighteenth Amendment and the dry law.

ADMITS HE HELD UP

COAST GUARD OFFICER

A plea of guilty of assault with a revolver on a Cape Cod Coast Guard officer was made today in Federal Court by William E. Falk, No. 45 Fair street, New Bedford, who will be sentenced later.

Falk's plea was offered after he stepped down from the witness stand, where he had testified in his own defense before Judge Brewster and a jury.

According to Chief Petty Officer W. M. Long of the Wallcut Coast Guard station, Falk lashed him and two others on a pier in that town on the night of November 21 of last year with the command, "Put 'em up."

Long testified Falk pushed an automatic revolver against his stomach, but quietly submitted to arrest when informed the "hood" victims were government officers.

DESERTER GETS YEAR ON "WHITE SLAVE" CHARGE

John Arnold of Fall River, an alleged deserter from the U. S. Coast Guard at Staten Island, was sentenced to a year and a day by Judge Brewster in Federal District Court today for violation of the "white slave" law. Arnold pleaded guilty to having transported Elsie Salzman of Brooklyn, N. Y., to Fall River two months ago and was arrested by the Fall River police after his wife met him in that city with the Brooklyn girl.

CHARGES EARL TIRED OF WIFE

London, Oct. 28 (N.Y.A.)—The charge that Earl Cowley left his wife, the former Mrs. Placid, American actress, "to get rid of one of whom he had tired and with the idea of saving $18,000 a year," was made today by Sir Edith Hume-Williams, opening the defense of Countess Cowley in the Earl's divorce action. Court was packed today with the curious of Mayfair when the case was resumed.

A maid, employed by Mrs. Maud Collier, testified that Humphrey Kent, named in the case, and a Colonel Davidson slept in Mrs. Collier's flat during her absence in France and that Countess Cowley visited there and entered the men's rooms.

The maid testified a great deal of drinking went on and that there was a good deal of kissing between the Countess and Kent.

The Countess took the stand, at first into tears several times during her testimony and the case was adjourned.

The Countess denied she ever drank heavily. Her counsel submitted there was no evidence of misconduct between the Countess and Kent.

FAIL TO IDENTIFY MORELLI IN SLAYING

Several witnesses to the murder of Michael DiPietro on North street last week failed this morning to identify Giovanni Morelli, who was brought here from Springfield last night and had as a suspect in the shooting.

After Morelli had been viewed by the witnesses, he was turned over to the Superior Criminal Court, where he was placed on probation a short time ago after being found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon.

—A HOME PAPER FOR THE CITY OF BOSTON—
BOSTON, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1926

GENERAL NEWS SECTION

FOKKER IN HUB, LAUDS AIRPORT

"Boston is the gateway to the air. It is the logical starting point in the East for all transatlantic flights," Anthony Fokker, inventor and builder of the Byrd North Pole air plane and others of the Fokker type, in Boston today as guest of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, so declared.

"Boston is better fitted for an air port than any other city," he said. "Flights to Paris will eventually start from here and go via Newfoundland. The voyage will take 50 hours and will be perfectly safe."

WOMEN AS PILOTS.
"Future planes will be built so luxurious that babies will be born in them with as much comfort as in a hospital."

Women make as good flyers as men and any theory to the contrary is absurd. In a short time it will be no more unusual to see women flyers in the sky than it is today to see women chauffeurs. Women have courage and balance and make good pilots.

AIR TAXIS SOON.
"The American public is apt to aviation. They are ready and anxious to take to the air."

"The small plane, that is, plane individually owned, are coming in many. Taxi air service is soon to come."

Fokker declared the tragedy of Cape Poge's New York-Paris flight, due to mismanagement. He said that Fokker had not supposed to properly prepare for the voyage. Fokker planes are soon to be sold in the Colonial Air Lines in Boston, Fokker said.

Now he wants Willie, too, but Sergeant Lyons seeks to be made guardian.

COUNSEL TO AID BIGNEY ACCUSERS

Attleboro, Oct. 28.—Leo Dufresne, World War veteran, and his 18-year-old bride, Margaret Cullen Dufresne, accusers of Colonel Sidney O. Bigney, millionaire jewelry manufacturer, were to retain counsel today to advise them in their spoken intention of asking a warrant for the colonel's arrest.

This lawyer and Colonel Bigney's counsel will shortly appear in court. Clerk Thayer of the time they will be before Judge Joseph Rogers and argue the matter of an application for a warrant.

Colonel Bigney still declaring the charges are false, has retained James H. Leavitt, Jr., and expects he will fight the application to a finish.

The colonel said he was called to the Dufresne home by telephone in regard to some repairs and on arrival that while he was there he was accompanied, Mrs. Dufresne and his wife, Mrs. Fred Brown, appeared.

On the other hand, Dufresne charges that the former member of Governor Currier's cabinet and friend of President Taft, had so treated his wife previously. All Attleboro is hearing eagerly over the case, and wondering just exactly what will take place during the alleged scene in the Dufresne residence, owned by Colonel Bigney. The Dufresnes considered their first wedding anniversary by appearing in the court. Police Sergeant Lyons, the application was not filed. The father, however, said that he was hearing there was would be the case.

SACCO APPEAL PAPERS ARE FILED

In support of his appeal to the Supreme Court for a new trial for Sacco and Vanzetti following Judge Webster Thayer's refusal to grant one, Attorney William G. Thompson, their counsel, today filed in Superior Court at Dedham a lengthy bill of exceptions.

The paper filed today takes exception categorically to each of the 27 affidavits filed by the prosecution at the recent hearing before Judge Thayer on motions for a new trial based on the confession of Celestino Madeiros, convicted murderer, who confessed to the alleged Sacco-Vanzetti crime.

Attorney Thompson, in his bill, also repeated objections previously made against Judge Thayer's decisions relative to the case.

NEWHAVEN ASKS O. K. OF MERGER

Washington, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—An action was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for authority to acquire control of the Central New England and the Hartford River and Port, Connecticut, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, subject to the approval of the public service commissions of those states.

The New Haven asked for authority to issue $4,000,000 of 4 1/2 per cent equipment trust certificates. The proceeds from their sale will be used in the purchase of eleven electric locomotives, seven steam locomotives and other rolling stock at a total cost of $4,000,000.

Use More Cotton to Cut Divorces, Says Woman Judge

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 28 (A.P.)—The adoption of more cotton clothing would decrease work for the divorce courts, in the opinion of Judge Virginia Henry Mayfield of the Domestic Relations Court of Jefferson County.

Judge Mayfield, the only woman judge in the South, believes a return to the style of the past would serve a double purpose—contentment in the home and aid to the cotton planter.

"The use of more cotton and less silk," the woman jurist said, "might really be the cause of a little more contentment in the average home and a little less work for the divorce courts," she said. "Certainly the clothing would cost less."

APPEALS FROM 'MISRULE OF VOLSTEADISM'

An appeal to the voters of the State to register a clear and decisive vote against the "misrule of Volsteadism" was issued today by Charles S. Hackman, president of the Constitutional Liberty League.

The Republican party, he urged, should seize the opportunity offered in the election on November 2, to rid itself of an "unwilling alliance with the Anti-Saloon League."

"The campaign in Massachusetts," he said, "draws toward it the Constitutional Liberty League desires to say to the voters that it has made every effort to have the issue of prohibiting fairly presented and fully discussed."

"The League is in no sense a party organ or agent," he said. "It is a previous announcement in its public statements it is composed of members of various political parties."

ON BASIS OF FACTS.

"It does not attempt to coerce or even to persuade voters in their action. It simply states and endeavors to give them facts and arguments upon which they can draw their own conclusions and decide upon their own course of action."

"It does, however, point out now, as it has consistently done heretofore, that by voting for candidates who are known to support the Volstead law and the 13th Amendment, a protest will be filed against those candidates, irrevocable, expensive and demoralizing agencies in our government."

"It has become more and more apparent during the past year that the Republican party has been forced into an unwilling alliance with the Anti-Saloon League."

"The day when it is proven that such an alliance is a losing one will be the day when this alliance will be ended; and the Republican party will then be free to turn to the policy of prohibition which has been urged upon it by many of its most conspicuous leaders, such as Nicholas Murray Butler and Senator Wadsworth, whose advice up to this time it has been afraid to follow."

QUESTION OF LIBERTY.

"We have come to such a pass after seven years of Volsteadism that, in answer to our recent circular letter, it now is a question of prohibition and liberty."

"Massachusetts will stand among the foremost of the States in leading and helping to form public opinion, and should she register a clear and decisive protest against the present misrule it will go far towards helping those in other States to form sound judgments and encourage them to take similar action."

"Reports from our agents and friends all over the State lead us to think that we may hope for satisfactory results next Tuesday."

"The lot will be cast."

FRENCH DEBTS OWED IN AMERICA $435,000,000

Paris, Oct. 28.—A communication issued today by the financial commission, outlining the payment of French debts owed in America, said that the French government is obligated to make payments for the payment of $435,000,000 to American creditors between now and the end of 1929.

The payments will be small until 1929 when it is contemplated that $100,000,000 in debt owned by the Treasury will be wiped out.

$10,000 THEFT OF COATS

Brooklyn, Oct. 28.—Thieves ransacked the coat department of Joyce Brothers clothing store at No. 24 Main street, early today, encasing with fur coats and other articles of wearing apparel valued at more than $10,000.

Tearing iron bars from the casing, the thieves gained entrance through a rear window under cover of darkness and while an automobile waited with engine running outside they proceeded to select the most valuable coats in stock.

It was stated that 26 coats for women were taken in addition to 15 men's coats and a large quantity of other articles.

Demands Receipt as He Settles for $5 Speed Fine

Eugene Bennett of East Walpole staged a novelty in Judge Palmer's Municipal Courtroom today when he demanded a receipt for the fine of $5 he was assessed for violating the city's speed ordinance.

It was refused.

Bennett was one of 120 alleged violators of the traffic regulations who appeared before Judge Palmer and were fined $5, $10 and $15 each.

AIR BEACON IS ON SATURDAY

New England's first aerial light-house will flash out its guiding beam to night flyers Saturday night.

Aviation enthusiasts and government officials will watch Mayor Nichols turn the switch atop the Gilchrist Company's building on Washington street.

The beacon, the gift of the Gilchrist Company to the city of Boston, throws a beam visible 14 miles. It revolves eight times a minute.

ARREST WAS FOR TOSsing NOTES TO GIRL AT TRIAL OF SHERIFF

NEW AUTO TRIPS WITH IRMA ARE REVEALED IN CASE

Questions were hurled at Lloyd Stoddard, elderly father of Irma, who was arrested and held without bail by Judge Graham.

CROWD THROUGHS COURT.

After the jurors had done down the trial of the accused sheriff went to the government. The government brought Mrs. Mildred Kiser, sister of Irma Stoddard, to the stand, but instead John M. Wood, State witness, was first called for cross-examination.

A crowded court room was expected, waiting the testimony of Lloyd Stoddard, who was arrested and held without bail by Judge Graham.

After the jurors had done down the trial of the accused sheriff went to the government. The government brought Mrs. Mildred Kiser, sister of Irma Stoddard, to the stand, but instead John M. Wood, State witness, was first called for cross-examination.

Witness Tells of Seeing Girl Go on Auto Rides with Sheriff

Corroboration of Irma Stoddard's story that she went automobile with Sheriff Fairbanks was produced by the government. When George J. Aldrich, Springfield, Vt., taxi driver, was called to the stand, he testified that he had seen Irma and the sheriff riding together in the sheriff's automobile on several occasions.

Thomas Randolph was to be the government's chief witness today. Attorney Herbert G. Turner, representing the defense, cross-examined Wood, a Springfield, Vermont, taxicab driver.

In direct examination Wood said he occupied the first floor of a building in which Mrs. Mary Trotter lived. He added that the sheriff had visited the Stoddard girl in the taxicab twice in the last six weeks, and that he had seen her during the month of August.

Q—Did you see him very often?

A—Yes.

Q—You know that Mr. Fairbanks has been a sheriff there during the last six years?

A—Yes.

KEPT WATCH ON HOUSE.

Q—And you see him very often?

Irma's Father Quizzed on Her Affair with a Married Sutor

Q—Did you hear her give her name over the telephone?

A—Yes.

Q—What was the name of that telephone call?

A—I'm not sure, I can't fix the date.

Q—Can you fix the date when you first saw the Stoddard girl?

A—No.

Q—Did you see Mr. Fairbanks go in and out of there before the time you thought Mrs. Trotter might be selling liquor?

A—Yes.

Q—But you don't know if the Stoddard girl was present on those occasions?

A—No.

Q—Didn't you give any attention to Mrs. Trotter's visitors until you thought she was selling liquor?

A—No.

Q—I didn't pay any particular attention to them.

Q—And about the time that Chairman Adams found out you were in the house in and out of the place?

A—Yes.

Q—You know Mr. Wood, that at about that time court was being held in Windsor?

A—Yes.

Q—Was that in December?

A—Yes.

Q—How long did the 1925 term of court last?

A—I don't know.

Q—Were there any periods last week or more when you did not observe the sheriff going into the Trotter residence?

A—No.

Q—When did Mrs. Trotter leave your tenement?

A—April 1, 1926.

Q—Was it because of a notice you gave her?

A—No.

TALKED WITH SHERIFF.

Q—Did you talk with Mr. Fairbanks before the time when Mrs. Trotter left your tenement?

A—Yes.

Q—When was that?

A—It was in March, after the time I had ordered her out.

Q—Did Mr. Fairbanks on that day, inquire about her liquor-selling?

A—No.

Q—Did you discuss with him the notice you had given her to vacate?

A—Yes.

Prosecutor Adams proceeded with direct examination of the witness at this time. He asked:

Q—You say that you heard the woman in your tenement was selling liquor?

Q—Well, where was she then?

A—She was in the house.

Q—Can you name the place, to give the date, the date of the trial?

The witness hesitated for some time, and then answered, "I don't know." She worked at Rumbley's in Springfield and for Mrs. Trotter.

Q—How long was she also at Trotter's?

A—It was through the winter of 1924.

Q—Did you ever go there to see her?

A—No.

Q—When did she first appear at home again?

A—She came home in October, 1925, to see her mother.

Q—How about 1924? Did she come home in the Spring?

A—No.

Q—Did she come home alone?

A—Yes.

Q—When you say home, where do you mean?

A—It was where I was staying, in my daughter's house.

Q—How long did you stay there?

A—Two or three days.

Q—You know that Sheriff Fairbanks then provided another place for her to go to?

A—Yes.

Q—Did Fairbanks, during that period, visit your house?

A—No.

Q—Before the eighteenth of July did you make arrangements for the sheriff to look after Irma?

A—No.

Q—Well, I tried to get him to break up going around with her. This answer was later stricken from the record.

Q—When did you first go to see Fairbanks with reference to the girl?

A—When she was in the house.

Q—My wife did it. I was sick at the time and I didn't want to go to do with it.

Q—Was that a result of a conference between Mr. Fairbanks and your wife, what then happened?

A—My wife and the sheriff then went away in the horse and carriage.

Q—Was that in the winter?

A—Yes.

Q—When was the next time that you talked with him about Irma?

A—When the sheriff came.

TALKED ABOUT BARNY.

Q—Where did you see him?

A—On the road to my daughter's place.

Q—What did you say to him?

A—I asked if he could stop Barney, coming to see my daughter, Irma.

Q—What did he say?

A—He said, "Have you any new clew on Barney?"

Q—Then what?

A—He told me he'd do all he could to stop it.

Q—Did you suggest to him how to go about it?

A—No.

Q—Did you place your daughter in his care in any way?

A—No.

Q—Was there any suggestion made at that time by you for him to watch over your daughter?

A—No.

Q—When did you next see him and talk about Irma?

A—Several times.

Q—After the one that you tell about, in the fall of 1924, are there any more meetings that you recall?

A—Well, he was to my house and saw my wife two or three times in 1925.

Q—Under cross-examination by Attorney Wilson witness was asked:

Q—How long have you known the sheriff?

A—I think since about 1914.

Q—Your wife went out with the sheriff to bring Irma home, did she?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you eventually learn where they found her?

A—Yes, at the Lovells.

Q—Was the Lovells a place you thought improper for her to be at?

A—Yes.

WAS ANGRY AT SHERIFF.

Q—After your daughter came home your relations with her, somewhat strained, weren't they?

A—Yes.

Q—You was mad because you had the sheriff bring her home.

A—No.

Q—And from then on she was unwilling to live in the house?

A—Yes.

Q—You had her to talk for going about with certain people?

A—Yes.

Q—How did she come on her last trip?

A—Twenty years.

Q—Since she became eighteen years of age has it true she has been where she pleased?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you talk with Fairbanks about her conduct with other men?

A—No.

Q—Do you remember that I ever did talk with Mrs. Fairbanks?

A—No.

Q—When was the first time you talked with Irma about Barney?

A—It was in the Summer of 1924.

Q—What did you say to her when you first learned they were going out together?

A—I told her to keep away from Dan Barney, because he was a married man and old enough to be her father.

Q—What did she say to you?

A—She told me she was of age and would go out with whom she wanted to.

Q—While your wife was sick did you see your daughter ride by her house in an automobile with Barney?

A—Yes.

Q—Can you try to stop her?

Q—When was the first time you talked with Irma about Barney?

A—It was in the Summer of 1924.

Q—What did you say to her when you first learned they were going out together?

A—I told her to keep away from Dan Barney, because he was a married man and old enough to be her father.

Q—What did she say to you?

A—She told me she was of age and would go out with whom she wanted to.

Q—While your wife was sick did you see your daughter ride by her house in an automobile with Barney?

A—Yes.

Q—Can you try to stop her?

A—No.

Q—Did you ever see her there to see her?

A—No.

Q—When did she first appear at home again?

A—She came home in October, 1925, to see her mother.

Q—How about 1924? Did she come home in the Spring?

A—No.

Q—Did she come home alone?

A—Yes.

Q—When you say home, where do you mean?

A—It was where I was staying, in my daughter's house.

Q—How long did you stay there?

A—Two or three days.

Q—You know that Sheriff Fairbanks then provided another place for her to go to?

A—Yes.

Q—Did Fairbanks, during that period, visit your house?

A—No.

Q—Before the eighteenth of July did you make arrangements for the sheriff to look after Irma?

A—No.

Q—Well, I tried to get him to break up going around with her. This answer was later stricken from the record.

Q—When did you first go to see Fairbanks with reference to the girl?

A—When she was in the house.

Q—My wife did it. I was sick at the time and I didn't want to go to do with it.

Q—Was that a result of a conference between Mr. Fairbanks and your wife, what then happened?

A—My wife and the sheriff then went away in the horse and carriage.

Q—Was that in the winter?

A—Yes.

Q—When was the next time that you talked with him about Irma?

A—When the sheriff came.

TALKED ABOUT BARNY.

Q—Where did you see him?

A—On the road to my daughter's place.

Q—What did you say to him?

A—I asked if he could stop Barney, coming to see my daughter, Irma.

Q—What did he say?

A—He said, "Have you any new clew on Barney?"

Q—Then what?

A—He told me he'd do all he could to stop it.

Q—Did you suggest to him how to go about it?

A—No.

Q—Did you place your daughter in his care in any way?

A—No.

Q—Was there any suggestion made at that time by you for him to watch over your daughter?

A—No.

Q—When did you next see him and talk about Irma?

A—Several times.

Q—After the one that you tell about, in the fall of 1924, are there any more meetings that you recall?

A—Well, he was to my house and saw my wife two or three times in 1925.

Q—Under cross-examination by Attorney Wilson witness was asked:

Q—How long have you known the sheriff?

A—I think since about 1914.

Q—Your wife went out with the sheriff to bring Irma home, did she?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you eventually learn where they found her?

A—Yes, at the Lovells.

Q—Was the Lovells a place you thought improper for her to be at?

A—Yes.

WAS ANGRY AT SHERIFF.

Q—After your daughter came home your relations with her, somewhat strained, weren't they?

A—Yes.

Q—You was mad because you had the sheriff bring her home.

A—No.

Q—And from then on she was unwilling to live in the house?

A—Yes.

Q—You had her to talk for going about with certain people?

A—Yes.

Q—How did she come on her last trip?

A—Twenty years.

Q—Since she became eighteen years of age has it true she has been where she pleased?

A—Yes.

Q—Did you talk with Fairbanks about her conduct with other men?

A—No.

Q—Do you remember that I ever did talk with Mrs. Fairbanks?

A—No.

SUICIDE'S ASHES TO BE CAST IN RIVER WHERE HE DIED

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 28 (AP)—The body of George W. Cooper, Rochester, recovered from the lower Niagara River, will be cremated and the ashes cast into the river from the same spot on the Upper Arch Bridge where Cooper shot himself and bled to death. Plans are under way to have the disposition of the ashes made with

Show Children Beautiful Places, Queen Says

by Queen of Rumania

Which do you think is stronger, the memory of people or of places?

Sometimes a place will rise distinctly and wonderfully before my mind whilst I can hardly remember the people I met there. As other times it will be the faces of people that I remember, and their background plays little part.

As children I think that places imprint themselves more vividly on our minds, rather than people—day after day, many of those who were with us here or there are not remembered at all.

A garden, a hill, a road, a stretch of seashore, a river, a cave, the perfume of certain flowers, the color of certain wall-papers, the shiny coat of an edified horse or pony, the glimmer of a shadowy life-sized statue seem to imprint themselves more lasting on the memory than, for instance, the face of the lady who received us at her house, or the boy who arranged a picnic we so dearly enjoyed.

LESS INTEREST IN PERSONS

A child will remember the place that was set before him, the rug it sat on, the view it looked at, but the person who entertained remains but a blur. And looking back through the procession of years, we can still see the place, see the view as we did then, but not the face of our hosts. I think that on the whole children are more interested in things and things that are so vividly imprinted on the memory of their own world than others, except for a few exceptional comrades or playfellows are notable quantities.

Mother is of course generally a necessary background to the picture, and stands out less agreeably when remembered as one of those who wished authority and was able to get barriers and "thou shalt" words.

LIFE TREASURES.

There are certain memories of childhood that remain marvelous treasures for all the rest of our lives. I think that all parents ought to see to it that their children should have a store of these cherished memories that none of the wear and tear of life can rub out. They remain like small cases of sunshine in a desert of moon that has become colorless and black.

What a marvelous adventure life used to be before things were quite explainable, quite distinct.

Yes, let us show our children as much as it lies within our power of beautiful places, and upon those beautiful places let us embroider happy pictures that they will never forget.

King of Rumania Dying, Reported in Berlin

The Governor General, Viscount Wellington and Acting Premier J. A. Bous met her at the platform of her train from Montreal. The party left immediately after the formalities of welcome had been observed, for the Archives Building, where the royal party inspected the historical souvenirs of Canada's national life.

A reception followed in the Parliament Building. Tonight a formal dinner at Government House will round out the day's activities.

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 28 (AP)—The Rumanian Government deeply appreciates the reception given Queen Marie by the American people, an official told the Associated Press today.

President, Calif., Oct. 28 (AP)—New discoveries confirming existence of the "cosmic ray" were announced here by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of the California Institute of Technology, upon his return from South America, where he conducted scientific experiments in the Andes mountains.

Dr. Millikan announced his experiments confirmed that the cosmic ray is constantly hitting the earth from every direction and that it is the most penetrating ray known. We cannot even begin to assert what change in man's view of the universe this ray will bring about, Dr. Millikan said.

UNITARIANS PROTEST TO MARIE

A protest against alleged treatment of Unitarians in Rumania, and a proposal to send the protest to Queen Marie now on her American tour, were a Unitarian sectional conference into a hectic debate today that lasted more than an hour.

At the end of the debate it was decided to send the protest to the Rumanian legation in Washington, with the recommendation that it be brought to the attention of the Queen while she is in this country.

CELEBRATION DANCE AT METROPOLITAN TONIGHT

One hundred and twenty-five stockholders and the board of directors will be guests of the Metropolitan Theatre management tonight at the midnight dance in connection with the week's program, celebrating the first anniversary of the theatre. The dance, to be held in the grand lobby and limited to the theatre personnel, is the first of its kind.

Other guests of honor will include Harry Marx, of New York, Public Theatre director of service; W. J. MacDonald, prominent real estate operator of this city; and Mrs. MacDonald has been responsible for much of the development of the Park square district. Education begins the gentleman, but reading, good company and recreation must finish him. —Locke.

DECLARES KLAN IN '24 BACKED WATSON

St. Louis, Oct. 28 (N.Y. A.)—A new story of a political deal by which the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana endorsed Senator James E. Watson, Republican, of Indiana, for the Vice Presidency in 1924 because the Senator had helped the Klan west. Earl B. Mayfield, Democrat of Texas, was told today by George Meyers, former Klan organizer, before Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, at the re-summation of the stock fund industry. Meyers said leaders of the hooded organization had ordered the endorsement of the Indiana Senator because the Klan was under an obligation to him.

Meyers also drew the name of William F. Egan, general counsel of the Klan, into the inquiry. Egan's duties in Washington, he said, consisted partly of enacting legislation favorable to the Klan and partly in seeing Senators.

Another amazing story of Klan activities was told by James V. Belton, former Klan secretary of State in Indiana, who declared a delegation of Klansmen took the mayors of Indianapolis and Evansville to Washington on Klan funds to get Imperial Wizard William W. Evans to approve the appointment of Charles J. O'Brien as corporate counsel of Indianapolis.

The same trip also was described by Meyers who said the Klansmen met in the office of Senator Watson while in Washington.

REED ORDERS CAMPAIGN FUND PROBE IN ARIZONA

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28 (A.P.)—Investigation of the senatorial campaign in Arizona was ordered today by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, chairman of the Senate campaign fund committee.

Senator McCarty, Republican, Oregon, now conducting the campaign in the campaign in his own State, was asked to proceed to Arizona as soon as his present work is concluded.

REPORTS from our big business prove that it really is big. No wonder Europe envies us. While doubling Thomas says: "What do you think of the business outlook?" reports of great companies answer the question.

In the first nine months of this year General Motors earned more than $149,000,000, and the big United States Steel Company more than $148,000,000.

It is interesting to see one of the automobile organizations making bigger profits than United States Steel, largest industrial organization in the world.

In nine months United States Steel earned more than $148,000,000 on five hundred millions of common stock. That was once called "this air." It wasn't "water." Now, it represents "put back" it represents no one knows how much real wealth.

LEADERS of the Bolshevik Russian government inform their followers that everything is going nicely. Russian propaganda is responsible for the revolution in China. Russia is supporting financially the British workers in their great coal strike, which has put the whole of Europe on short coal rations.

THE IMPORTANT thing, according to Stalin, Russian boss, is for Russia to get control of "reactionary labor unions." He means especially the American Federation of Labor.

American capitalists should realize that the American Federation of Labor is indeed a great bulwark of conservatism, and not try to push it in the direction of Bolshevism by any glossing over the fact that it organized labor power is not what it once was.

DISPATCHES from Constantinople say five thousand people killed in the recent earthquake in Armenia, three important villages entirely destroyed. Turbulent Nature has been at its latest American demonstration in a series of small earthquake shocks in Missouri, buildings shaken, no serious harm done.

We are fortunate in that we get our earthquakes scattered and in mild doses. Our high winds are worse than our small earthquakes by far.

THE SUPREME COURT decides that after the President, with the Senate's approval, can appoint an official, he can remove that official without the approval of the Senate. This enjoys the Senate, but average citizens will applaud the Supreme Court decision. We allow the President to select the man, subject to the Senate's approval, and should allow the President to throw the man out without anybody's approval.

SURE THERE IS LIFE ON MARS BERENGER WILL EXPLAIN DEBT

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—A certainty that vegetable life exists on Mars from which animal life may be inferred, is expressed by Professor Philip Fox, dean of the Department of Astronomy of Northwestern University. "It seems certain that vegetable life exists on Mars and where there is vegetable life there is animal life, it is only a question of time before we shall be able to migrate rapidly with the dirigible," he said. "The Martian animal, however, is probably a fur-bearing one, equipped by nature to live in the vastness of the Polar regions. It is of necessity quite small to be able to migrate rapidly with the dirigible."

It is inferred that St. Berenger's object in going back to Washington is to explain fully to the American public the debt situation which will activate the desire of the French for reparations as to the settlement of the debt and to try and find some compromise which will satisfy the desire of the French for reparations as to the settlement of the debt and to try and find some compromise which will satisfy the desire of the French for reparations as to the settlement of the debt.

MUSSOLINI RAISE CELEBRATED

Rome, Oct. 28 (U. P.)—Mass meetings throughout Italy and speeches by Benito Mussolini and other high government dignitaries today marked the commemoration of the fourth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome and the elevation of Mussolini to power. Mussolini issued a proclamation which was posted throughout the country, declaring that he not only was a silver lining to the dark clouds of Italy, but that the sun is beginning to break through, showing a glorious future for Italy if they but follow the doctrine and principles of Fascism and have the will to work. The Premier's proclamation was accompanied by a statement by Finance Minister Count Volpi, in which he declared that the reserves are growing, savings are increasing, the national debt diminishing and war debts are being paid. Mussolini also announced that in contrast to 1925, when there were approximately 10,000 unemployed in Italy, today there were none without work.

HALLOWEEN PARTY IS PLANNED TONIGHT

St. Vincent's Young Ladies' Association will have a Halloween party tonight in the club rooms at 12 and Bolton streets, South Boston. Novelties will be given out and a fine program of entertainment will be furnished. The committee includes the Misses Katherine Walsh, Ann Flaherty, Mary Davis, Margaret Noyes, Anne Donovan, Eleanor Larkin, Margaret Walsh, Helen Jones, and Miss O'Brien, Margaret Hurley, Mary Sullivan, Katherine Throat, Helen Fontaine, Alice Scott, Mary Gillen and Agnes Mahoney.

THREE DEATHS SEEM TO PROVE ANCIENT PROVERB

Greifenthor, Austria, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—The old Austrian proverb that calamities occur in threes has proved correct here. A peasant citizen threw himself from an extreme train and was crushed to death. The police officer investigating the railway was struck with apoplexy and died within a few minutes. A shepherd who had seen the suicide from a tree, overlooking the railroad track, fell to the ground and was killed. The three funerals were held on the same day.

MISS ELLA F. MOORE TO BE BURIED FRIDAY

Funeral service for Miss Ella F. Moore, 75, who died in Los Angeles, will be held in St. Augustine's Church, Dorchester street, South Boston. A requiem high mass will be celebrated at 8:30 a. m. Friday evening. Before leaving for the West, Miss Moore was an active church worker throughout the district. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Sam Morris, of Los Angeles and three brothers, Francis X. James L. and Ed. J. U. S. all of South Boston.

DISCONTINUE PUBLISHING HARVARD REGISTER

Publication of the Harvard University Register was discontinued for the year at least by action of the Student Council in its first meeting of the year. It was announced. The reason is the large deficit that confronted the Council after the publication of last year's Register. The Register is a directory of names and addresses of students in the college. The Student Council further voted to refer all pertinent athletic affairs to the recently appointed Undergraduate Athletic Council.

Quit blowing and sniffling! Ease your throbbing head! Nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only thirty-five cents at any drug store. It acts without addiction, tastes nice, causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine. Don't accept something else.

KILLS SELF FOR DANCER'S LOVE

Constantinople, Oct. 28 (A.P.)—Yildiz Palace, once the home of the Sultan, but now the new Monte Carlo of the East, has had its first suicide due to loves at the gambling tables in an endeavor to regain the love of a beautiful Russian dancer, who had tired of him.

Micolas De Repent, an attaché of the Hungarian Legation, shot and killed himself after having lost more than 3,000 Turkish liras in the one time home of Abdul Hamid.

It is believed the sum gambled away by the young diplomat was borrowed money, as it was known he recently sold certain personal belongings of value to satisfy the extravagant tastes of the dancer, reported to be the most beautiful woman in Constantinople.

PRINCE LEOPOLD AND BRIDE COMING TO U. S.

Brussels, Oct. 28 (I.N.S.)—Prince Leopold left for Stockholm today to make preparations for the civil ceremony that will unite him to marriage to Princess Astrid next Tuesday. On the following day Prince Leopold will celebrate his twenty-fifth birthday anniversary.

Following the formal religious marriage ceremony on November 10 it is likely the Crown Prince and his pretty wife will travel extensively in Europe and America. Other members of the royal family will leave for Stockholm Saturday.

A Frankly Revealing Serial of Boston Night Life

By WARNER FABIAN

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR
Derry Thomas, an attractive business girl, while shopping, permits Tony Lander, a young man whose name she has overheard but whom she does not know, pay for a dress fabric she cannot afford. He leaves her without learning her name. Mr. Ostrander, her employer, has her promise not to marry for three years. Derry goes out with Beverly Greenway. He admits he is a Summer bachelor. They meet Preston Smith, a Boston politician, at a North Shore club.

CHAPTER VI
"Laughing, Derry cried, 'Touche!' And added, to her companion, 'It's no use, Bev, Mr. Smith is too good.'"
"Well, it's a hard life, the criminal career," confessed Greenway, with a disarming smile at their involuntary hosts, "and they say justice is swift."
"The sentence of the court," said Mr. Smith, "will be executed in another product of New England." He produced his own flask.

"Apple-jack, fifteen years aged in the wood," he observed with a sweetly simple pride.
"Coats-of-arms water, I'll call it," she laughed. "That's quite enough, thank you. It was all my fault, Mr. Smith. Your course looked so tempting—and I hadn't swung a club for ages."
"Come back and swing some more when I can be here to swing with you. Don't be timid with that apple-jack, Mrs. Greenway."

"I need it after the strain of expecting to be arrested. Why are you being so nice to us, Mr. Smith?"
"To be quite frank, I rather like your looks. And I was young once, myself."
Smith excused himself for a moment, and Derry took the opportunity to say: "I suppose I ought to go home." But she sighed, involuntarily.
"Where do you get that ought stuff?"
"It doesn't mean much," she confessed.
"That's better. I'm not feeling gushy myself tonight. Home is out. What then, Derry, darling?"
He put his hand over hers. Both understanding the effort at camouflage in his manner, she could feel the tremor in his fingers, and in that moment she knew that she was enslaved to her, plant to her control; that she need have nothing to fear from his strength, only from her own possible weakness. The knowledge gave her confidence, at the same time unsealing her dangerously toward him.
"I just want to go on," he recklessly "Let's go," he said.
"We can't, yet. We must make our manners like nice, pretty children to our kind friend who is giving this party."
Smith returned, bearing another ambrosial flask.
"You're certainly been a sport. Continue on Page 23, Column 8

Gene's Weak Knuckles Cause of Bad Fights Three Years Ago

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
This is the twenty-first chapter of Gene Tunney's story—written for the Boston Evening American.

By GENE TUNNEY
World's Heavyweight Champion

AFTER I had regained the American light heavyweight championship from Harry Greb, Billy Gibson said to me: "Your victory over Greb indicates that you are the best man in a division abounding with brilliant boxers. But you must not look on that title as the fulfillment of your ambition. Look ahead, always ahead!"

"I never intended to put ten pounds on your frame so that when you meet Jack Dempsey—as you will eventually—you will be his physical equal. Make the heavyweight championship your goal and stop short of nothing less."

Diligently I began to build up. Weight, however, was slow in accumulating. I gained by inches. Not until two months before my fight with Dempsey did I realize that I was at last a legitimate contender.

Two months before I had beaten Greb, I returned to the ring to dispose of Jack Clifford in a knockout in a short round. That battle was in Boston, Nov. 19, 1923. My victory was a complete one. However, I again hurt my hands. When I met Jimmy Delaney in Chicago a week later, actually suffered pain when I wrapped the bandages about my swollen fists.

I was in a bad way, but I didn't know that until after the fight. The swollen hands, swollen knuckles, were not a crowd-pleaser. We looked very much, but we both fought and made out fairly well in a five-round fight.

In my first fight with Delaney, Tommy Leonard, the light heavyweight champion, was in my corner. What a masterful boxer that man was! I never even saw him equal in the ring and never even saw him lose. When the fight was over, he said to me: "I'm a better SHADOW BOXING than you do tonight!"

Tunney Solves Greb's Boxing Style

It rained two weeks for me to nurse my bruised knuckles back into passive condition. Then I slowly learned them once again.

My opponent was Dan O'Day, who had been my adversary in the first round in which I engaged after my discharge from the Marines.

I hammered O'Day for ten rounds and succeeded only in breaking the bones of my hands and not hurting the Bostoner over much. I then took a fifteen-day rest, interrupting my rest only to meet Greb in a third time in the Garden.

Harry Greb, defeated that night—December 10, 1923—in an effort to regain the title which he had won from me and then had given back. I beat him decisively and at the end of fifteen rounds was the champion.

Feeling that my hands were not yet strong enough for a hard-fought attack, I went against Greb this third time with a plan of disregarding any and all of his punches and to hammer the softer regions of his body.

I did not deviate from this course. In the early rounds, the Pittsburgh Windmill hurtled enough gloves at me to fill a warehouse. Toward the last the body punching had dimmed his ardor.

About this time he had cried out upon my apparent pley and mindfulness in the ring and was saying: "Tunney is not a fighter. That kind of a boxer never will give a temporary advantage. He is a brutal enforcer."

Told me he is or should be cruel to any man in his belief. Of course, you will get and take punishment, as witness my having been close to him at the hands of Harry Greb in my first fight, and my having punched out two fellows, a Corporal and Dempsey. But a man who would never let a fight go to a fight.

Fate Plays Into Hands of Champion

Just before the fight that rain would "ruin England." His opponent was Dan O'Day, who had been my adversary in the first round in which I engaged after my discharge from the Marines.

I hammered O'Day for ten rounds and succeeded only in breaking the bones of my hands and not hurting the Bostoner over much. I then took a fifteen-day rest, interrupting my rest only to meet Greb in a third time in the Garden.

PROBES FOOTBALL CONFLICTS

New York, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The football season is in full swing and the conflicts of the game are being played out in the courts.

Harvard's football team, which has been playing since September 12, has been the subject of a number of legal actions.

The first of these was a suit filed by the United States Football League, which claims that Harvard's players are in violation of the league's rules.

The suit was filed in the federal court in New York City. It was filed by the league's president, John H. Johnson.

The league claims that Harvard's players are in violation of the league's rules by playing for the team without having been registered with the league.

The league also claims that Harvard's players are in violation of the league's rules by playing for the team without having been paid for their services.

The league is seeking an injunction to prevent Harvard from playing its team and is also seeking damages.

Harvard's attorney, John H. Johnson, has denied the league's claims. He says that Harvard's players are not in violation of the league's rules and that Harvard is not liable for their actions.

Harvard's attorney also says that Harvard is not seeking damages from the league.

The case is expected to be heard in the federal court in New York City in the near future.

TREAT TO PICK GRID WINNERS

Today pulls the curtain on the season's first football game, the Harvard-Harvard game, which is being played at the Harvard Stadium.
